Cal Ripken, Sr. Foundation Disclosure

At the Cal Ripken Sr. Foundation, we strive to offer both a program and camp experience that the youth we serve will benefit from, learn from and never forget. We hope that the volunteers, mentors and other organizations we work with also have a positive experience as they work with our staff to instill the character building and life lessons that are the cornerstone on which we were founded. Hosting the children that we serve in a safe and inviting environment is a priority to us and we go to great lengths to ensure their experience is one of a kind and hopefully life changing.

We look forward to working with our all of our volunteers and mentors who, like us, have a strong desire to help others and be positive role models for children from all backgrounds and demographics. Keeping our children safe is our biggest priority and any mentor or volunteer who works with us must be committed to this as well.

As part of our programming at camp, there is a heavy military and law enforcement presence. This includes, but is not limited to, numerous military vehicles and a strong military personnel presence. At times, there may be helicopters circling the grounds and several of those helicopters may land. Law enforcement personnel may throw smoke bombs or other items that may explode, make loud noises or emit smoke. Officers may be wearing tactical and/or SWAT gear or may be carrying firearms. Many military and law enforcement officers serve as our mentors and work closely with us. The equipment and other items they bring are a tactical part of their presentation and our program at camp.

Part of our mission is to treat all children and youth participating in programs sponsored by CRSF with respect and dignity. We feel the same way about the volunteers and mentors that we work with. We want everyone to feel comfortable and safe when they are involved with our programs. Knowing that some mentors may have an adverse reaction to any of the events described above, we ask that any volunteer or mentor who is under the active care of a healthcare provider or mental health professional provide a letter from that professional certifying that the type of environment described in this document will not aggravate an existing medical or mental health condition. In addition, all participants must sign below indicating that they understand what they will experience in camp, and that such conditions will not pose any safety risk or negatively impact their ability to volunteer with our organization.
